The screenshot shows a web application interface for MyCIC. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links: 'Start Again' (with a refresh icon), 'Help' (with a question mark icon), 'Modify my Answers' (with a globe icon), and 'Share with CIC'. On the right side of the navigation bar is a 'Print' button with a printer icon. Below the navigation bar is a progress bar with five steps: 'Identification', 'Upload documents' (which is highlighted), 'Review application', 'Payment', and 'Application submitted'. The main content area is titled 'Your documents'. It contains a paragraph explaining that users need to upload documents to proceed and that they can click a question mark button for more information. Below this is a link: 'Are you having difficulty downloading a form?'. Another paragraph states that application forms for study permits, work permits, and temporary resident visas are being updated on May 4, 2013, and that forms downloaded before May 4th will not upload to MyCIC. A 'Note' section follows, stating that users are responsible for ensuring the documents are correct and that a decision will be made based on the information submitted.
